Fall

Days are shorter, air is cooler
Shimmering heat is past
A golden carpet lies beneath the trees
Flashes of scarlet catch my eye
And blaze to crimson in the sun
After touches of frost and windy days
Trees may seem bare but still we see
Patches of colour starkly contrasted
By the dark steady green of fir and pine
Lazy summer is pushed aside
By Autumn's energetic crispness
Leaves crunch underfoot and cool air
Encourages us to walk briskly
The geese honk their farewells
A reminder of Fall but a promise of Spring
One season blends into another
But rather than being melancholy
We can flow with the seasons
Enjoying each for the gifts they give
Fall encompasses our annual Thanksgiving
My heart is grateful for many things
Not least the beauty that is Fall
